University of Nebraska-Lincoln
Department of Agricultural Economics

Academic Integrity Statement and Policy
Adopted April 2014

Academic Integrity Statement

All courses taught by faculty/staff in the Department of Agricultural Economics will include the following academic integrity statement in their course syllabi:

Students are expected to adhere to guidelines concerning academic dishonesty outlined in Section 4.2 of University's Student Code of Conduct (http://stuafs.unl.edu/ja/code/). Students are encouraged to contact the instructor for clarification of these guidelines if they have questions or concerns. The Department of Agricultural Economics has a written policy defining academic dishonesty, the potential sanctions for incidents of academic dishonesty, and the appeal process for students facing potential sanctions. The Department also has a policy regarding potential appeals of final course grades. These policies are available for review on the department's website: (http://agecon.unl.edu/undergraduate).

Student Appeal Process for Incidents of Academic Dishonesty

Academic dishonesty can involve cheating; fabrication or falsification of information; plagiarism; destroying, defacing, stealing, or making inaccessible library or other academic resource material; complicity in the academic dishonesty of others; falsifying grade reports; or misrepresenting illness, injury, accident, etc., to avoid and/or delay an examination/quiz or the timely submission of academic work and assignments.

Academic disciplinary sanctions resulting from academic dishonesty in any AECN course depending on the degree of severity (as interpreted by the instructor) may range from a warning (written or oral) to assigning the student a final course grade of “F” for the semester. The instructor may choose to assign zero or partial credit for a specific assignment, quiz, examination or written report in which academic dishonesty was involved.

Before imposing any type of academic disciplinary sanction, the instructor must first discuss this matter with the student(s). In all cases, the instructor must document the student's actions which constituted a violation of the Student Code of Conduct in terms of academic dishonesty. This documentation must be kept by the instructor for a minimum of one year and must be made available to appropriate Department, College, and UNL authorities if this case of academic dishonesty results in a disciplinary hearing and/or an appeal is filed by the student. When an academic disciplinary sanction is imposed that causes a student to receive a lowered course grade, the instructor must make a written report regarding the facts of the case, and explain the academic disciplinary sanction imposed against the student to the Department Head and, if necessary to the UNL Director of Student Judicial Affairs. The student shall be provided with a copy of this report. The instructor may recommend further disciplinary proceedings by the UNL Office of Student Judicial Affairs against the student for violating the Student Code of Conduct if the instructor believes that such additional action is warranted.

If a student facing an imposed sanction due to an incident of academic dishonesty in an AECN course wishes to appeal this sanction, the following process must be followed. First, the student must submit a written appeal to the instructor of the course and state their reasons for appealing. If this student appeal cannot be resolved with the course instructor, then the student must immediately submit their appeal statement within seven days to the Department's Undergraduate Committee for their recommendation. If a satisfactory solution to this appeal is still not reached with the Department Undergraduate Committee, the student's written appeal will then be forwarded to the Department Head. If a satisfactory solution is still not achieved at the Department Head level, the student may then submit their written appeal statement to the CASNR's Dean Office. The appeal process for the College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources will then be followed as outlined by the College.

Student Appeal Process for a Final Course Grade Resulting from Grading Policies

A student wishing to appeal a final course grade (or a grading policy) for an AECN course must first gain approval by their academic adviser in order to initiate this action. With approval by the student's academic advisor, the student must submit a written appeal to the appropriate AECN course instructor and explain their reasons for justifying a higher course grade or appealing a specific grading policy in the AECN course. If a satisfactory solution is not achieved with the course instructor, the student may then request a decision and recommendation from the Department's Undergraduate Committee. If a satisfactory solution with the student is still not achieved at the Department level with the Undergraduate Committee, the student may then appeal their final course grade to the CASNR Dean's Office and the appropriate CASNR Grade Appeals Committee. Students appealing a final course grade must do so within one month following the course grade being assigned and posted on MyRed.