Synergistic Activities

Active member of new interdisciplinary professional associations. Original and current member of the U.S. Chapter of the Ecological Economics Association.

Secretary, and on the Board, Society for the Advancement of Behavioral Economics, and regularly involved in conferences. Actively involved with SABE since its formation in the late 1990s. Serve on the Editorial Board for the Journal of Socio-Economics (SABE provides editors and reviewers).

Original Chair (helped drive the formation of this Section), and currently the Secretary, Institutional and Behavioral Economics Section (IBES) of the Agricultural and Applied Economics Association (AAEA). Have regularly helped in organizing symposia and IBES Track sessions for the AAEA meetings.

The series of papers starting in 1988 on the role of the "other-interest," i.e. positing that economic decisions are driven by a self-interest that is tempered by a shared other-interest. Dual interests theory and the metaeconomics (a term coined in 1999) approach is gaining ever more attention.

The approach is to take substantive research findings out, not only to professional audiences, but to state and local audiences. Also maintain WebSites, participate in listservs.
